Council Opposes Transit As Low Proposed

The Albany City Council Monday night went on record as "definitely opposed to Rapid Transit now proposed," withholding support until satisfactory funding and financing have been worked out.

The council has been invited to attend a public hearing on the proposed Rapid Transit project, scheduled for December 5, in room 409 Fifth Street, Oakland. Mayor Carlevaro invited Albany residents to attend the hearing on the proposed $939 million project, in an effort to determine public opinion on Rapid Transit. The newspaper is publishing a questionnaire in today's paper. Residents are urged to fill it in as quickly as possible.

Other action during the 30-minute meeting Monday included: AIR POLLUTION — Held over two weeks a request for support of a resolution from the Board of Directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District asking the 1962 Legislature raise assessment limits from 1 cent to 1.6 cents on each $100 assessed valuation within the district.

LIBRARIAN — Authorized the Albany Library Board to advertise after January 1 for a librarian to replace Mrs. Kathleen Peterson, who has resigned effective March 1, 1962.

WEEK — Authorized the mayor to proclaim the week of December 1-8 as "American Field Service Week."

PERSONAL PROPERTY — Voted to pay $15 to replace glass-frames broken by Tony Kaler, city employee.

SALARIES — Approved establishment of salaries for elective positions of Chief of Police at $29,000 per month, including $293 per month paid for duties as Chief of Police and Order, a position to be eliminated; City Attorney, $15,000 with comparable reduction in secretary allowance to $75 per month, both schedules to become effective following the next election.

MARKING ZONES — Approving changing four of six 20-minute zones adjacent to northeast corner of San Pablo to one-hour zones, leaving two 20-minute zones.

Albany Man Unhurt When Car Crashes Bedroom

"I thought it was an earthquake," Charles Patton of 1101 Masonic Avenue said Sunday in describing his reactions to a car slamming into the wall of his bedroom, where he was asleep, Saturday night.

At 9:44 p.m. Saturday, cars driven by John T. Coffin, 24, of Whittier and Sam Daugherty, 61, of Oakland, collided at the intersection of Dartmouth and Masonic. The Daugherty auto crashed into the Patton home. Coffin was thrown from his vehicle by the impact.

Called the scene, Albany police were unable to question the drivers because of their injuries. No citations were issued pending investigation.

Coffin, a graduate law student at Cal, was having difficulty in breathing and suffered multiple head lacerations and fractured ribs. Daugherty had lacerations of the scalp and possible dislocated shoulder. Both were taken by police ambulance to Herrick Hospital, although Coffin was later transferred to Cowell Memorial Hospital in Berkeley, according to Officers Jim Simmons, Clinton Standley and Wayne Ollikkala.

Weather permitting, Kains from Brighton to Marin will become a one-way southbound street tomorrow, Administrative Officer James B. Turner has announced, warning motorists to look before they enter the thoroughfare, which has been a one-way northbound.

Because arrows will be painted on the street, the work cannot be done if it is raining. In that case, the direction will be changed on the first day the weather permits. Regular street signs will be installed, Turner added.

Mayor Joe Carlevaro has proclaimed the week of December 1-8 as American Field Service Week in Albany, urging support of the candy sale which will enable a boy or girl from across the sea to attend Albany High School.

"American Field Service International Scholarship Program is a vital contribution to world peace by providing the opportunity for high school boys and girls from other lands to live one year in typical American homes and attend American schools and by this means to observe for themselves our American way of life," the mayor said, adding that in like manner American young people are sent abroad to attend school and live in homes of other nations, thereby acquainting themselves with the cultural heritage of many nations.

"FRINGE BENEFITS"

The beautiful thing in dealing with a BANK is that once established (especially at Mechanics) you find so many doors of opportunity open to you. There is scarcely anything moneywise that Banks do not know about, and it seems that just about every project or plan calls for money. In any case, you get the benefit of the Bank's long experience. This is a "Fringe Benefit" and there is no substitute for it. You will feel "at home" at MECHANICS.

Meyer Family Expresses Gratitude

The family of George John Meyer, who died November 7, would like to take this means of acknowledging the many kindnesses shown them following his death. They particularly thank Ellis-Olson Mortuary and the Rev. O. R. Janke of Grace Lutheran Church.

Mr. Meyer, born in Oakland on April 2, 1922, died in Martinez following a long illness. A 1940 graduate of Albany High School, he was graduated as an Ensign from the U.S. Maritime Service School during World War II. He later served aboard a Standard Oil tanker. Following a period in business for himself as a locksmith, Mr. Meyer joined Pacific Gas and Electric Company, working as steam engineer for about 10 years before illness forced his resignation.

He was confirmed in Grace Lutheran Church at the age of 14 by Pastor Janke.

Survivors include his wife, Gertrude, and three children, Thomas, Betty and Edna Marie of El Sobrante; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Meyer and a brother, Melvin, all of Albany, and a sister, Lucille Narron of Oakland.

Funeral services were November 10 at the Ellis-Olson Mortuary.
